Right to Life Foundation, Haryana Annual Report 2021-2022

Introduction

The Right to Life Foundation, Haryana, faced significant challenges during the period from April 2021 to March 2022 due to the second wave of COVID-19. Despite these obstacles, the foundation managed to sustain its operations and make progress in various areas. This report outlines the activities undertaken during this period, focusing on office work, project-related activities, and routine visits.

Impact of COVID-19

The second wave of COVID-19 severely hampered the foundation's planned activities. As mentioned in the previous report, many projects had to be paused or adapted to the changing circumstances. However, the foundation continued to operate wherever and whenever possible, ensuring that essential work was carried out.

Major Activities

Office Work

During this period, the foundation focused on essential administrative tasks to ensure smooth future operations:

- Filing of NEW PAN for NGO: Successfully completed the process of obtaining a Permanent Account Number (PAN) for the NGO.
- NEW Bank Account Opening: Initiated and completed the process of opening a bank account to facilitate financial transactions and project funding.

Project-Related Activities

While no formal structured projects were conducted due to the pandemic, several key activities were carried out to maintain momentum and prepare for future initiatives:

- Online and Telephonic Assistance: Provided support and assistance through online and telephonic channels within the foundation's network.
- Continuation of Research Work: Continued research activities online, gathering data and insights to inform future projects.
- Consultation with Medical Experts: Engaged with medical experts to seek advice and guidance on health-related matters and project planning.
- Consultations with Stakeholders: Held discussions with various stakeholders to ensure alignment and cooperation for upcoming projects.

Follow-Up with Jhajjar Administration

By the end of the second wave of COVID-19, the foundation resumed follow-up activities with the Jhajjar administration. This involved:

- Application Follow-Up: Re-engaged with the new District Commissioner (D.C.) to follow up on the application submitted earlier.
- Site Visits: Conducted visits to various sites, including:
 - Brick Kilns: Assessed conditions and needs of workers in brick kilns.

- One Stop Centre: Evaluated the services and support provided at the one-stop center.
- Old Age Homes: Regularly visited old age homes to check on the well-being of residents and provide necessary support.

Routine Activities

Despite the challenges posed by the pandemic, the foundation maintained its routine activities, including:

- Visiting Brick Kilns: Continued visits to brick kiln sites to monitor conditions and offer support.
- One Stop Centre Visits: Regularly visited the one-stop center to ensure ongoing support for beneficiaries.
- Old Age Home Visits: Maintained regular visits to old age homes, providing care and assistance to elderly residents.

Conclusion

The year 2021-2022 was marked by significant disruptions due to the second wave of COVID-19. However, the Right to Life Foundation, Haryana, remained resilient and continued to operate within the constraints imposed by the pandemic. Through focused office work, project-related activities, and routine visits, the foundation ensured that it remained active and prepared for future initiatives. We look forward to overcoming these challenges and making greater strides in the coming year.
